

Muhammad Farid Ahmed

Economics (CASP)

Farid is currently a 3rd year PhD student in Economics at the University of Cambridge and a member of Selwyn College. He specializes in commodity prices and is interested in coming up with econometric techniques that can detect asset price bubbles in commodities.

Farid has a vast teaching experience, having taught Macroeconomics to First year undergraduate students and Econometrics to third year undergraduate students. He has also been a supervisor for a number of Cambridge colleges where he has taught a range of different subjects. Teaching is a passion and one of the main aims of Farid's PhD is to gain experience as a teacher and a lecturer.

In addition to teaching, Farid partakes in a number of sports and societies at Cambridge. As treasurer and publicity officer for Selwyn College MCR, Vice President of the CU Pakistan Society and a member of the Selwyn Cricket and Lacrosse teams, Farid is trying to make the most of Cambridge. Recently he has started taking event photography seriously and is in line to cover some of the biggest May Balls in Cambridge.
