

Alexander Markham

International Business Management

Alexander Markham holds a Masters in Business Strategy, Politics and the environment, and has worked as Global Environmental Coordinator for FTSE 100 company Reed Elsevier, as well as running his own business, and holding a directorship of his family business. For the past four years Alexander has taught Business Studies A-level and International Business Management at Oxford Tutorial College, and is currently undertaking a PhD in Cultural Studies. He is also in the process of establishing an educational charity.

